John Patterson to Gates.

May 18, 1777.

Dear General

Since my last, Capt. Stone, who I informed you, was gone down to Gilleland's Creek to make Discoveries, has returned with a prisoner, which I shall immediately send down to Albany;--his name is Philo Hurlbet, he seems to be a harmless person, says he was enticed away by the infamous Capt. Hawley, of the Hampshire Grants, he joined the Enemy last Campaign at Crownpoint, and on the promise of being supplied with provisions, went with the Army to Canada.

U. S. L. Claims cont'd.

The Late JOHN T. HURLBUT.

Watertown, May 4.—John T. Hurlbut, an old resident of this city and well known throughout northern New York as a cheese buyer and commission merchant, died Friday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. E. Moore, 40 Stone street, aged 64. He had been an invalid for the past two years. Two daughters, Mrs. A. E. Moore, of this city, and Mrs. A. C. Toby, of Picton, Ont., and a son, Charles Hurlbut, of Scranton, Pa., survive him. The funeral was held Monday afternoon. Interment at Brookside.

to land this blow, but his efforts are invariably unsuccessful.

Following the custom of other pugilists, Corbett has included the horse in his training schedule, and any fine afternoon he can be seen on the road jogging along at a lively rate. In the morning Corbett takes long runs on the road, the distance varying from five to ten miles. On his return he receives a stiff rub-down, and after a few minutes' rest dons a light pair of gloves and punches the bag. Corbett is a past master at the art and generally entertains quite an audience.
